The Gazette takes pleasure in publishing a letter to-day from Mr. Thomas B. Harkins, President of the T. B. Harkins Foundry Co., in which that gentleman gives his reason for joining with the other leading manufacturers of Bristol in asking the Hon. Irving P. Wanger to be a candidate for re-election to the National House of Representatives.

Mr. Harkins is an old resident of Bristol, and has always been identified with all movements for the promotion of the best interests of the borough. He has been a member of the Borough Council and Burgess of the town for a number of years and in that capacity served with credit to himself and to the welfare of the town. He is also a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and is at the present time the Commander of H. Clay Beatty Post, No. 73. We can heartily commend Mr. Harkins' letter to our readers.

Mr. Thomas B. Harkins gives his reasons.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—Being one of the parties who subscribed to the letter to Mr. Wanger requesting him to permit his name to be presented to the Lansdale convention for the Republican nomination to again represent the Seventh Congressional District, I desire to state my principal reason why I signed the letter.

I favor the nomination of Mr. Wanger because I believe that with four years experience in Congress he is better equipped to take an active part in the important legislation which the business conditions of the country demand when the Republican party assumes control of the government, than would a newly elected member who has not had the advantage of this experience.

With myself and hundreds of others who have been compelled to pass through the ruinous depression in business during the last three years, it is not a question of locality as to who shall represent us, but who will best represent us in the next Congress and help get us out of the Democratic mire and restore the country to its once prosperous condition. We look to the Republican party to do this, and with a clear sweep in the coming November election, and the selection of true and tried men, there is no reason why legislation should not be in operation by this time next year that will start our country on a long term of general prosperity.

T. B. HARKINS.

June 10, 1896.

Captain Alfred Marple, of Langhorne, on the Congressional Question.

Captain Alfred Marple, one of the leading residents of Langhorne, who served his country throughout the war with distinction as captain of Company F, 104th Regiment, P. V., recently wrote a letter to the Lansdale Republican giving his views on the congressional contest in this district. Captain Marple is an ardent Republican, and though about 75 years of age, still takes an active part in politics. The letter is dated June 24, and that part of it relative to the congressional question, is as follows:

"I was at Newtown to-day and asked a prominent citizen about the meeting there to advocate the right of Bucks county to name the next congressional representative from Bucks county. He said that there were but few representative men at Newtown in sympathy with the meeting, but that a Bucks county candidate was the better of it. Some of the best citizens of Langhorne are for Wanger. They believe that fitness, not locality, should be decisive in the case. The plea of an agreement 22 years old has not a leg to stand upon. The anti-Wangerites wanted ex-Judge Wildman to preside over their meeting but he declined and did not attend. It was a beautiful sight to see three lawyers hold out their arms and mutilate the four people of the necessity of keeping an agreement of 22 years ago, each one hoping to be the candidate, if such a rule should prevail. The district attorney said they talked about experience, but experience was nothing compared with the obligation to keep that agreement."

ALFRED MARPLE.

The School Board.

The annual meeting of the School Board was held last Tuesday evening. All the members were present but one.

The treasurer's statement for the year was presented and noted on. It shows a small balance on hand, and will be found in full in this copy of the GAZETTE.

The new board was organized by the election of John K. Wildman as President, Harvey S. Rue, Secretary, and Edward H. Foster, Treasurer.

An unsuccessful effort was made to displace the present secretary and treasurer. There could be no good reason for making a change, as these officers have shown beyond all doubt that they are entitled to public confidence. They are capable and efficient, and they have always discharged their duties faithfully and with the utmost care and attention in every particular.

The President, on taking the chair, congratulated the board on the successful year's work, not only in the conduct of the business of the board, but likewise in the excellent condition of the schools through the faithful diligence of all the teachers. He urged the board to adhere to the practice of rigid economy during the coming year, so as to avoid all necessity for increasing the tax-rate while so many people, in one way or another, are sharing in the distress arising from the prevailing hard times.

The salaries of the secretary and treasurer were made the same as last year, $125 and $100 respectively.

The treasurer's bond was fixed at $15,000.

The tax-rate remains the same as last year, amounting, with the sum provided for the bonds, to thirty-five cents on the hundred dollars. The school year remains unchanged, ten months, and the time named for opening the schools in the fall is Tuesday, September first.

The Board will meet, as usual, on the first Thursday evening of each and every month.

A special meeting for the election of teachers and janitors will be held on Monday evening, the 15th inst.

Tell-Tale Lips.

The more we contemplate the things that go on around that old rule which expired long ago by limitation, the more we are convinced that it is simply used as a pretext to serve a particular purpose. What is that purpose? Does anybody know? Has anybody sniffed it in the air? It is almost tangible enough to be detected by any of the senses. Why all this nervous anxiety about the expiration of a rule that never had much wisdom in it anyway, and was only born to live a specified period? Who can tell? What is the nature of the little plant that has its root in that fertilizing rule, and from which it sucks nourishment? Does anybody know?

One of the speakers at the Bristol meeting said something in the course of his remarks that might serve as a clue. At any rate it puts us on the scent. These are his words: "We have a man living within the limits of Bucks county who is able to perform the duties of congressman." Only one? How said! How deplorable! What a dearth of good material, congressional material, there must be in our famous old county. Who would believe that the stuff of which congressmen are made is so dreadfully scarce hereabouts? We take no stock in such a thought, but if it be true that such poverty afflicts us, then "pity 'tis 'tis true." But let us not believe it. It is essentially false, "grows as a mountain, open, palpable." Indeed, 'tis but the truth in masquerade.

In one sense the words quoted convey a truth, even if it be not all the truth. It is all the truth the speaker could see. It was enough for him. He wanted no more, and so his hearers understood him. For him and for his use, only one man loomed above the horizon, only one that he cared to recognize in all our county who is "able to perform the duties of congressman," and, like the hen with a solitary chicken, that one absorbed all his thought and consideration, as well as his tender anxiety. It was not fair play towards the other fellows. It was not kind. No speaker, even with that fertilizing rule for his guide, had a right to erect a district in his own brain, a private district of his own, and exclude from all recognition those ambitious inhabitants thereof who happened to dwell on the wrong side of an imaginary line. Let us enter a solemn protest against all such frantic antics of the mental vision.

True Republicanism.

EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE:—It is currently reported that a number of Republicans, whether they can be called good Republicans or not, others may decide, have declared their intention to refuse to vote for Mr. Wanger in case he is nominated at Lansdale. On the other hand, I have not heard of a single advocate of that gentleman's nomination holding a similar attitude towards any other candidate. Let us earnestly hope that there are none among these who are so inclined, but that every one of them will demonstrate the soundness of his Republicanism at the polls by sustaining the choice of the convention.

Any man who now shows such an antagonistic spirit towards the present representative of the Seventh district, do not mean precisely what they say. It is not the position that any true Republican can either occupy or sanction. It is not only narrow but extremely selfish. It implies that personal preference is of more account than political success. It indicates a higher regard for the prejudice that is lodged in the mind, than for the principles that underlie the Republican party. It shows that what is called county pride may take a higher place in one's affections than pride in the district. It places egotism above patriotism.

It would be poor business for such a spirit to prevail to any great extent. Fortunately it is not likely to. We all have our preferences, and we all have our prejudices, but it is the behest of wisdom to let these play a subordinate part. They ought not to rule over reason. They ought not to dominate in the place of something higher. They ought not to declare their supremacy to principles or good policy, and in no way should they oppose against the success of that policy or the triumph of those principles.

The party is superior to the individual. The nominee of the convention at Lansdale will be a man who represents the principles of the Republican party, whatever may be his name. The selection there made will be a loyal Republican, and as such he will be entitled to the support of every other loyal Republican in the Seventh congressional district. Is anybody bold enough to contradict this simple statement? Can it be possible that any Republican is so filled with the narrow notions that are bounded by the orbit of local pride, as to be willing, under any circumstances, to hold aloof from the important work of striving to gain for his party a victory at the polls? If any such there be let us hope that they are few. Their example is unworthy of imitation. Their Republicanism has not the true ring. Its quality is below par. It lacks that soundness and solid merit which characterizes the genuine, undiluted article.

Bristol, June 8th, 1896. G. O. P.

Mr. Wanger's Candidacy.

The letter which Congressman Irving P. Wanger this week sent to the Bucks county manufacturers, who had expressed a desire that he again consent to become a candidate, sets at rest all doubts as to his position in the matter. Mr. Wanger consents, and it is to be hoped that the convention will accord him a re-nomination. In the next Congress we shall need a man possessing both ability and experience, and while it is conceded that Bucks county could and would undoubtedly have presented a candidate of unquestioned ability, the experience would be lacking. It is certainly an encouraging sign to note that so many business men and citizens of Bucks county have so generously ignored the consideration of a dividing line between Bucks and Montgomery counties, and have invited Mr. Wanger to again become a candidate.

Sketch 1 shows the Seventh Congressional District created under apportionment act of 1873 and existed until wiped off the map of the Commonwealth by act of legislature, 1887.

The much discussed rule of 1871 was adopted to govern eight years, or the supposed life of the apportionment, (as the legislature was due to reapportion the state in 1882.)

This district contained, according to the census of 1870, 600,000 acres, 126,000 population.

Sketch 2 shows the Seventh Congressional District created under apportionment act of 1887, and is the district, in which we now live.

For this district there has never been enacted by conferees of the Republican party any rule looking to a division of time of congressional representation between the township, borough or counties comprising the district. This district contained, according to the census of 1890, 689,730 acres; population, 164,162.

The filled "cheese" bill passed by the Senate is analogous to the oleomargarine act of a few years ago in the respect that its purpose is to tax an objectionable manufacture out of existence. Filled cheese is made by using skimmed milk and hard instead of cream. It is not unwholesome, but it competes with the better article to the injury of the farmers, and therefore they want protection against it in the form of a tax high enough to take away the profits of those who are engaged in its production.

No man, says the Philadelphia Record, has ever seen a Quaker beggar. The members of this religious society look after their own indigent quietly and delicately, and none but the committee of relief know the names of those assisted. The late Joseph James, a Quaker of Philadelphia, left $200,000 to be devoted to the charity that begins at home. Yet the Quakers are not behind any other sect in deeds of general benevolence.
